

While reading the latest issue of Education Next, a journal for teachers and students, you came across the following call for articles.

Are you currently gaining a qualification in education?

We are interested in your thoughts and ideas on learning and education at school. We would also like to know how your school knowledge helps you in your workplace. The three best articles will be published in our summer issue.

You have decided to send in an article. In your article you should:

- explain what characteristics a good school has
- suggest how students could learn more efficiently
- outline the benefits of regular practical training

Give your article a title. Write around 300 words.
