Farming as an opportunity

by Robert Davies

May 2nd

I really believe young people should consider farming as a career because it has so much to offer. Also, don't forget that within the next 20 years more than half of all the farmers in the United States will be too old to work and will need younger people to do the work.

I don't think farming as a career choice gets enough attention. When I was growing up, I was told I could be anything I wanted: a doctor, a lawyer, or even an astronaut. But no one ever mentioned farming.
