The International Red Cross suggests that young people do a compulsory First Aid course at the age of 14. It wants to know what people all over Europe think about this idea and asks for essays to be sent in. The most interesting essays will be published on their website.

You have decided to send in an essay arguing for or against the idea of a compulsory First Aid course for 14-year-olds.

In your essay you should:

- explain why 14-year-olds would or would not like this idea
- argue why the state should or should not pay for these courses
- speculate on people's reactions to 14-year-old first-aiders

Give your essay a title. Write around 400 words.
